I think I was not meant to speak at CFUnited in 2008. I was initially scheduled to speak at the main event in D.C. and the European event in London. Unfortunately, I won't be able to make either. The main event was moved a week early and I will be in Cannes that week.   Brian Rinaldi   will be covering my RIA Security session, and my Advanced SQL topic was replaced with another in the same arena.

I was really looking forward to these events, but I guess there's always next year, and I'll see you at Adobe Max 2008.
