week full of releases

Posted At : December 15, 2005 3:41 PM | Posted By : Rob Gonda

Related Categories: ajax, ajaxCFC

There two main JavaScript frameworks used for Web 2.0 and Ajax are Prototype and DRW .

This was a week full of releases; Prototype 1.4 final was released today (although they haven't updated their site yet) and it's required to script.aculo.us 1.5 , which was also released today. Script.aculo.us is used to Ruby on Rails , which was released this week.

A new version of ajaxCFC with increased built in security will be released next week.